

BOOK RATING WEBSITE

Project Description

A book rating page that allows user to rate a book in 1-10 by their choice.

Also, user could leave a book review post, delete his own post and see other's posts.

At the home page, show the most favorites books list with ranking that was collected from users' rating. User is able to sign up an account with email address, username and password, then sign in and sign out. This project applies the concepts learned in class by building a MERN stack application with React, Nodejs, Express, JavaScript, MongoDB, HTML5 and Tailwind. Deploy on Heroku.

User Personas

- Adults willing to read and share their opinion about books they've read.
- Students who need to get inspired by some relative literature for their English essays.
- Parents who want their children to read books that are on top of the reading lists.
- People who want to know if a new book is worth to read by their rating scores and reviews.

User Stories

- Yang, a reader, loves Keigo Higashino, who would like to see how other readers commented on his new book released in 2022 <A Death in Tokyo: A Mystery>. Because the book rating page is the most up to date website that allows reader to discuss the new book online.

- Candice, a college student, who is working on her English writing class and wants to get inspired by some higher-ranking book related to her essay. She clicks the book at the top and to see why people think it is the most interesting book by their reviews.
